Let's be honest, no one grew up wanting to be in charge of operational deliverables and departmental excellence.

If you did though, then hallelujah, because it's finally your time to shine.

It's why you're keeping an eye out for a new challenge.

It's why decent roles are in short supply as once people get in, they don't want to leave.

Most of these types of opportunities are awful though, you're either slipping into the comfy slippers of whoever came before you or even worse, having to sort out the clusterfck of a mess they left behind as they were escorted out the door.

Here though, you get to set things up from scratch, whilst also starting from a great position.

It's the perfect situation.

You get to oversee the planning and delivery of key departments whilst also implementing project management flow, smart ways of working, systems that support and processes that purr.

All whilst mentoring coaching and developing a team who are crying out for your background and experience to show them the way.

This £12m TO agency have embarked on a recent growth spurt and now have 35 future colleagues waiting for you.

Waiting for you to handle the day to day and keep the engine running.

You won't actually have to get your hands dirty with the actual delivery of projects, oh god no, but ruddy hell you'll make sure they're profitable, on time and on budget as the Managing Director values operational excellence as much as you do so they'll stay out of your way as you call the shots.
